

International Urbanization Seminar (China)

Cross-Cultural Collaboration for Sustainable Urban Development

Last Name:	First Name:	Email:
Department/Program:		Degree/Year (senior, 2nd year Master's, etc.)
If you speak, read or write Chinese, please note your level of fluency. (Chinese-language ability is NOT required for this class):

Short Statements

1. Describe your interest in the International Urbanization Seminar. What do you hope to learn and what experiences would you bring to the table? Please note any research or academic work related to urban planning, environmental protection, community development, and/or international settings, particularly China.

2. The seminar is a project-based class where students collaborate remotely with students and faculty from Tsinghua University and Peking University in Beijing. Discuss a professional situation (such as an internship, job or class project) where you had to work with people from diverse cultural, technical, or disciplinary backgrounds. What was most challenging and how did you overcome that challenge?

3. Choose a Word:

Livable Sustainable Comfortable Connected

Identify the most _____ [insert word] city, community, neighborhood, or other place you have been, either in the U.S. or abroad. In your own words, what makes this place [insert word]? Images, photos or video are encouraged.